Internet Protocol Addresses

The California Digital Library (CDL) creates and maintains persistent identifiers to link entries in catalogs to licensed resources. This is done so that when a URL for a resource changes, we need only to update our persistent identifier (PID) and need not make changes in catalog records.

As part of the maintenance process, the CDL will periodically validate all PIDs to assure that they still resolve to the correct URLs. This will be done not more than once per week, and will appear to your server as a normal HTTP access. However, because the process is automated, it is considered a 'robot' or 'spider', as opposed to human-initiated retrieval. If your site maintains a robots.txt entry indicating that it does not permit programmatic access to the site, the CDL assumes permission to run its validation tool for the PIDs that the CDL has assigned to the licensed content. No reconfiguration of your robots.txt file is needed; our tool can be configured to bypass the robots.txt file. Please contact the CDL's Technical Coordinator if you have any questions or concerns about this process: TEXT DELETED

Schedule C

Payment

The fee payable in 2005 for the articles published in 2005 is equal to ^{TEXT D} of the total paid for 2005 print subscriptions held at Customer Sites.

These fees are dependent on the following:

In the event of automatic renewal, the fee payable for 2006 shall not exceed the fee paid in 2005 by an amount greater than ^{TEXT D} more than the yearly UK Retail Price Index Percentage increase as measured on 31 December 2005, unless Publisher increases payments as allowed in Clause 6.6, in which case there will be no upper limit on the fee payable.

Terms and Conditions Use of Information from The Royal Society of Chemistry

Permitted Uses

Authorised Users and "walk-in users" of Publisher Content are permitted to:

1. electronically display Publisher Content
2. copy (including printing and downloading) Publisher Content and retain it as long as they wish for their own personal use;
3. store Publisher Content electronically, provided the use is consistent with the other terms and conditions described here;
4. distribute or otherwise make available Publisher Content to other Authorised Users;
5. include Publisher Content in a presentation provided that the material carries the credit "Reproduced by permission of The Royal Society of Chemistry" in such a position and typeface as to be clearly visible to the audience;
6. include Publisher Content (eg. a diagram or chart) in a published work provided permission has been sought and obtained from the RSC in advance;
7. include copies (hardcopy or downloaded) of Publisher Content (i) in anthologies (coursepacks) in print or digital form for sale and/or distribution to the Authorised Users for their use in connection with classroom instruction and/or (ii) in reserves (print or digital) set up by Customer's libraries for access by Authorised Users in connection with specific courses offered by Customer. Copies of Publisher Content in digital form which are included in online coursepacks or reserves will be deleted by Customer after the end of the term in which the related course concludes.

Authorised Users must obtain special permission to make Publisher Content available to non-Authorised Users in any form whatsoever. This includes, for example:

1. making printed or electronic copies of Publisher Content for provision to non-Authorised Users (except as noted in the license for interlibrary loan);
2. making available a database from Publisher Content to non-Authorised Users;
3. publishing a collection of Publisher Content for provision to non-Authorised Users.

Copyright

Publisher Content is copyright and is subject to all applicable copyright, database protection, and other rights of the copyright owner and publisher. Copyright notices may not be removed, obscured, or modified in any way. Authorised Users must take all reasonable precautions to prevent theft or inadvertent illicit use of the intellectual property in Publisher Content.
